

AUFC Coach Charter

1. Entering into the Coach Charter arrangement

By agreeing to be added to the AUFC official coaching register (kept by the Aberdeen University Sports Union), an individual is agreeing to enter into the rules of the Coach Charter. They may be removed from the AUFC official coaching register upon request at any time, but they will not be allowed to give lessons during AUFC club time and lose the privileges outlined in 2.

2. Privileges of being an AUFC Coach

AUFC distinguishes between two types of coach: Student and Non-student.

Non-student Coaches are granted free membership to AUFC. In addition they may charge members for lessons*.

Student Coaches do not get free membership nor the ability to charge for lessons. Their work is for the benefit of the club.

Being on the official coaching register also gives the right to hire out areas of the ASV for private lessons outside AUFC club time.

*If the reported fee is found to be unreasonably high, the committee has the right to revoke the coach's ability to charge students.

3. Duties as an AUFC coach

Each coach should inform the Club Captain or Secretary before the start of each week (to the best of their knowledge) when they will be attending.

At the start of each session, all attending coaches must declare how many lessons they will give. That is the minimum amount of lessons they can give from that point on (that is to say that if a coach has committed to 3 lessons, they cannot then decide later in the session that they do not want to give the 3rd lesson).

Non-student coaches are obliged to offer a minimum of one lesson per session they attend. If a non-student coach has a legitimate reason for not giving lessons at a particular training session (eg. last training session before a competition), they must let the Club Captain or Secretary know at least a week in advance.

Student Coaches may decline from giving lessons at any session they attend.

4. Competitive Coach Status

A coach may apply to the club committee to be made a designated Competitive Coach. Competitive Coaches will only be responsible for coaching advanced fencers who are regularly competing at a high level or a member of the Women's or Men's 1st Teams.

5. Coach Conduct

Coaches must abide by the BFA Coaching Guidelines (see Appendix).

Coaches may not refuse a lesson to anyone that requests one**. If there is an issue between a coach and member, it is for the relevant individuals to resolve privately. If the issue cannot be resolved privately, the coach or student may come to the Club Captain (but only as a final course of action).

**Competitive Coaches reserve the right to decline non-advanced fencers lessons
